we say- . . .

A CROSS COUNTRY RUNNER IS

Between the innocence of youth and the dignity of adulthood, one finds an extraordinarily dedicated creature called a cross-country runner.

He/she is generally a composite of the American boy/girl - skinny or heavy, short-legged or long-legged, long-haired or short-haired, bubbly or shy, wise-cracking or stammering.

Whatever he/she looks like he/she lives by the creed of every genuine cross-country runner: "To run every race to the very best of my ability."

The cross-country runner is found everywhere . . . slipping through the halls . . . wallowing through the crowded winter traffic . . . taking in a beautiful sunrise on the local golf course . . . disappearing in the dust of cars on a lonely, dry summer road . . . running softly along the painfully hot tar roads of July . . . whipping into whirlpool baths . . . intervallong on indoor tracks . . . loping around lakes.

Motorists chastise them, teammates rib them, coaches criticize them, students cheer them, kid sisters idolize them, football players don't understand them, fathers encourage them, and moms worry about them.

A cross-country runner eats like UCLA . . . sleeps like Oregon . . . thinks about distance running like the University of Texas-El Paso . . . but often runs like Pumpkin Center Unified.

He/she can be observed in a host of unusual activities . . . fartleking . . . over-distancing . . . intervallong . . . speed working . . . hilling . . . circuiting . . . peaking . . . weight-lifting . . . and, when the pain of it all becomes too much, simply "walking" or "sitting" . . .

When he/she's not running well, he/she has too many other interests, like girls/boys . . . chemistry . . . girls/boys . . . physics . . . girls/boys . . . algebra . . . girls/boys . . . just can't concentrate . . . can't dedicate . . . or is just a bag of injuries.

When he/she's running well he/she is one of the hardest-working, most coachable athletes in school . . . is totally dedicated . . . will undoubtedly be a state champion . . . and is just a "physically tough" kid.

To the opponents' public relations man, he/she is sure to be a national leader and is probably the best distance runner in the history of the conference. He/She is Miki Gormann, Francie Lareau, Susie Hamilton, Frank Shorter, Bob Kennedy, and Todd Williams wrapped up in one.

To the coach, for press purposes, he/she lacks the real killer instinct demanded by great runners . . . he/she has the emotional stability of a playful cricket . . . the sprinting ability of a large snail . . . and is as coachable as a mule (though the coach knows all the time he/she will win the state).

To the alumnus, the cross-country runner is a nice kid who simply doesn't have the background . . . has not developed the distance base . . . will not go with the competition . . . can't run uphill . . . and hasn't the ability to kick like the five great runners on the 1967 team that finished second in the conference and almost qualified for state.

The cross-country runner likes news releases, "video tapes of winning efforts", recognition of a victory in the morning announcements . . . medals . . . ribbons . . . flat courses . . . overnight trips . . . new shoes . . . rub-downs . . . pictures in the yearbook . . . new uniforms . . . practice sessions the night before the meets . . . conference championships . . . trips to the state meet . . . and school records.

He/she is especially fond of blisters . . . shorts that rub . . . heavy running shirts . . . time-trials . . . team warm-ups, especially calisthenics . . . weight- training . . . circuit training . . . washing sweats . . . obnoxious motorists . . . hilly courses . . . big dogs . . . waiting for the race (but he/she lives with these things and has fond memories of them).

No one else looks forward as much to fall or so little to November . . . No one else can look at a field of 150 runners and know that he will finish 67th . . . No one else can have so many aches and pains and yet turn in excellent performances when the name of the game is "the big meet" . . . No one else feels defeat as deeply or as personally as the cross-country runner who had devoted 500 miles of training in preparation for the big race . . . No one else finds the same satisfaction and exhilaration in forcing every part of his/her body to the limit.

The cross-country runner is a wonderful creature . . . You can criticize him/her, but you can't discourage him/her . . . You can beat him/her, but you can't make him/her quit . . . You can take him/her out of cross-country, but you can't take cross-country out of him/her . . .

You might as well admit it - - - alumnus, fan, coach - - - he/she is your representative in the great international sport of American competitiveness . . . your totem of fair play and determination.

He/she may not be a state champion or qualifier for the Olympic team . . . He/she is not judged by color, religion, or social standing . . . he/she is measured simply by the democratic yardstick of how fast he/she can run, how far he/ she can run, and how much the sacrifice for the good of his her team and school.

The cross-country runner is a hard-working, untiring, and determined young person. When you leave the cross-country course moaning about a second or third place finish in a quality meet; he/she is the youngster, who, with a smudge of dirt on his/her cheek, sweat of his/her brow, pain in his/her body, and a tear in his/her eye, humbles and enriches you with a few simple words: "You tried!"
